Christine

Ben Jelen

Christine, she tells me That she's in love again Christine, she says

That she still loves meShe stands there calling my name

In her boyfriend's jacket in the rain

I guess she's in love with the whole damn worldAnd the whole world loves her

Won't turn without her

It has to have her

I can't live without herJust one moment with Christine

You know exactly what I mean

She stays a night and then she leaves

Just a little hope in betweenOne more moment with Christine

It's like a lifetime, where've I been?

I want to live to the extreme

I need another taste of ChristineOh, I need another taste

Another taste of ChristineChristine, the touch

Of another human touch

There whispered breath

Falling on your skinI don't know where to begin

Well, I just arrived, now I'm locked in

And now I'm caught in your mixed up worldAnd the whole world loves you

Won't turn without you

It has to have you

I can't live without youJust one moment with Christine

You know exactly what I mean

She stays a night and then she leaves

Just a little hope in betweenOne more moment with Christine

It's like a lifetime, where've I been?

I want to live to the extreme

Won't you tell me, where is Christine? And how many times will it take for me to learn?

Tell me, are we headed for nowhere, Christine?

And how many times will it take for me to learn?

Tell me, are we headed for nowhere? And the whole world loves her Just one moment with Christine

You know exactly what I mean

She stays a night and then she leaves

Just a little hope in betweenOne more moment with Christine

It's like a lifetime, where've I been?

I want to live to the extreme

I need another taste of ChristineHow many times does it take to learn?

How many times does it take to learn?
How many times does it take to learn?
And how many times does it take to learn?
Another taste of Christine
