Every Other Memory

Eli Young Band

I have this vision in my head of your little black suitcase lying on the bed you standing by the window staring into space looking everywhere but tears rolling down my face filling up the room with silence so we wouldn't have to say goodbyefor every other memory I have of you is good and if I could only rewind time I hope you know I would ohh
if you wonder if I ever stop and think of you and me every other memoryI've got this city at my door and the bright lights are better than before tonight I can't help wondering what's it all about every now and then I think I see your face out in a crowd even with the way we ended, I'd love to hear your voice give me a shout sometimescause every other memory
and if I could only rewind time
ohh
if you wonder
every other memoryI have this vision in my head your suitcase lying on the bed ? smile on your face one last long embrace I feel your tears wet on my cheek as if it happened just last week I know a lot has changed but nothing's changed no nothing's changedcause every other memory
and if I could only rewind time

if you wonder
