

Soulmate

V/A - Liberation Records

Monday morning you woke up crying
The outcome of a stupid line, oh-oh
Said by some punkass on the street
 It wasn't me, it wasn't you
 It wasn't anybody you knew, is it
 Your old friend insecurity?
The one companion that stuck by your side since you were born
 Tuesday night you were in a fight
 The same old argument, black and white
 It's something that's eating your inside
 It's not the food, it's not the booze
 It isn't anything consumed, so is it
 Becoming a problem you can't hide
So every time yo uthought that you were wrong you were right
 The devil on your shoulder gives you strength in paranoia
 The countless times you call a few

 Your best friend till the end of time
 They'll always be there by your side
 Solidify conditions you've abused
 What that means, you'll never have a clue
 More than just a life-long friend
 No social life, I guess we can pretend
 It's not like I care, but anyway
 You always wanna leave, you never wanna stay
 'Cause you think if you drink too much then you will lose it
 You'll drink your security away
The one companion that stuck by your side since you were born
 The little voice inside your head, annoying and confusing
 That somehow tells you what to do
Socially you've lost your mind and basically you're out of time
 You try to build so much, it breaks on you
 What that means, you'll never have a clue

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>