I Will Rise Again

Jason Gray

I will rise, I will rise
I will rise, I will riseIt was like somebody knew how to cripple me with the perfect plan to break my belief Take me piece by piece till my faith was all but goneIt knocked me down so far that I couldn't get up but face down in the dirt I heard the voice of love saying do not fear, you won't be here for longI will rise again, I will rise again
I believe I believe that I had to break
So love could make me whole
But I will rise again, stronger in the end
I believe I believe in a brand new day
A love that saves so I can say
I will rise againI'm not who I was, You won't recognize me
Love came sown and redefined me
And piece by piece put me back together differentlyAnd the perfect plan to try to bring me down
Has been put to shame it's been turned around as I come so alive that death is afraid of meI will rise again, I will rise again
I believe I believe that I had to break
So love could make me whole
But I will rise again, stronger in the end
I believe I believe in a brand new day
A love that saves so I can say
I will rise againI will rise, I will rise
I will rise, I will rise
I will rise, I will riseCause you've been here before
You've overcome the war
My life is found in yours
And you say I will rise again
You heal and you restore
You break down every door
My life is found in yours
And you say I will rise againI will rise, I will riseI will rise again, I will rise again
I believe I believe that I had to break
So love could make me whole
But I will rise again, stronger in the end
I believe I believe in a brand new day
A love that saves so I can say
I will rise againI will rise, I will rise
I will rise, I will rise

I will rise, I will rise

Songwriters
JASON JEFFREY GRAY, JONATHAN LINDLEY SMITH, ROSS KING, CASEY BROWNPublished by Lyrics Â© MUSIC SERVICE INC

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/