Emotions & Photons

Freezepop

another day flows by time travel gone astray my mind in disarray
i could have run away to be with you
i should have run away to be with youonce we got lost in the woods with your hand interlaced between mine and i stared straight at the sun and imagined the beams realigned emotions and photons, that flicker like bees when i look in your eyes, intertwinesix stories above i watch the world creep by i used to be in love and that's enough to make me high on you
and that's enough to make me high on you
