Quoth The Raven

Eluveitie

I am the mystery And i am the bringer of moonless night I bear the wisdom arcane I, harbinger from the burrowed isleOnce you break forth Hearken the flap of my wingsI haunt your fears Though you don't know of my duty To lead your path Because i'll take you home to rest In my black wings enfolding youI am the icon sublime The guide on the voyage clandestine I sing the verses bewailed I, torch of the radiant wayOnce you step out Hearken the strokes of my wings Once you will leave your cocoon I will be thereI haunt your fears Though you don't know of my duty To lead your path Because i'll take you home to rest In my black wings enfolding youAnd death will smile his barefaced smile Initiating your final anguish It is not before my arrival That you will be lead to feel The natural serenity of leaving this world...Hear my wings caressing the wind

Hear my cry!I haunt your fears
Though you don't know of my duty
To lead your path
Because i'll take you home to rest
In my black wings enfolding you
