One Days Evening

Waxwing

We shared everything one days evening
He brought me to you with a voice that sang so clear
Many years ago, how could I have known
That those same years spent never knowing
That love won't allow its own creation
And two separate lives can be lived in unison.
This ink just ran dry
Unexpected goodbye to this here place in time.
But I've moved nowhere
I sing sounds of farewell, I'm leaving you behind
I'm headed down the line
I'm leaving.
I remember the day I stared out at the sky
When both hope and love were realized
I said "I feel like anything is possible"
But I didn't understand
All we've been given
By all that's been taken.
Sounds funny but I can see
That the amount are equal
Of good and evil
That just might come from anything that happens,
That just might come from any situation.
When something is out of your hands
You showed up so unexplained
You can die trying
And never receive the gift I've been given in you.
