Emptiness

Matt Pond PA

Everyone was saved, everyone survived for just one hour
The vernal royalty of the blue sky filled our bones and nothing mattered
Because I've tried read your mind and I've tried to forget every word I've read
I understand that I don't make sense
This starlight crush on emptiness
My empire's radius extends all the way to my fingertips
I write you from my back, I write you in my mind, I write you from everywhere
Because my wildest memories steal me in my sleep
In a language unspoken
I understand that I don't make sense
This starlight crush on emptiness
Blue eye shadow in a silver dress
Heaven's high on emptiness
I understand that I don't make sense
This starlight crush on emptiness
Everyone remained, everyone belongs for just one hour
A sigh could fuel the sun and the blue sky floods our bones
And nothing mattered
In the space between stars at the fences end
We can live, we can live, we can really live
Now the smoke disappears, now the firmament's clear
We can live, we can live, we can really live
