Wake Up

Against All Evil

Wake up, clean yourself up off the floor
Fall down, your minds broken bodyâ€™s sore
First thought, how has it all come to this
Now caught, making up for all youâ€™ve missed
Wake up, time for you to face your biggest fear
And know, the bottle never made things clear
Life wonâ€™t wait for you, if never has
She wonâ€™t understand you loved her but you needed to collapse

So take blame, know that are better off
Can you still, recover all youâ€™ve lost

Wake up, time to take it back
Wake up, weâ€™ll wake up
All the Things you did and said can always be forgiven
Honestly apologies should just be the beginning

Wake up, promises they never keep Sheâ€™s done, listening to what they preach
Just one, kept his word and changed her life
She let all the walls fall down inside
Wake up, he was worse then all the rest
He left, but didnâ€™t she give him her best
Now back, said she wasnâ€™t thinking straight
Even though she loves him is it really all too late

And she blames him for everything they lost
Take him back or is she better off

Wake up, time to take it back
Wake up, weâ€™ll wake up
All the things you did and said can always be forgiven
Honestly apologies should just be the beginning

Oh stop living in the past
Well whatâ€™s done is done, now go get it back
And when you fall off the tracks
Remember itâ€™s never too late to face it

Wake up, wake up

And there heâ€™ll stand in front of you just waiting to be judged
The only hope he holds onto is you loved him enough

Lyrics submitted by Nick Oberdorf.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/