

Lights

Curt Anderson

Her eyes were bright, bright
She dreamt of lights, lights
She lost the fight, fight
Drowned in the nightHer love is cold, cold
Nothing to hold, hold
She let it go, go
Then lost controlShe could see all of the colors
Lighting up the sky
If all of this is hers
Then why's she left in dark
Feeling gone inside
Why does she try to hideMy God is love
Light shining undercover in the moonlight
He makes a cold heart burn bright
Brighter than a neon sign
There's no way your mistakes
Are more than the maker can unmake
My God is love
Light shining, oh, and it's never too lateThey told her lies, lies
Then said goodbye, bye
Now her demise, 'mise
Is wondering why
â€œShe won't let go, go
Although she knows, knows
Where it'll go, go
She's not aloneShe could see all of the colors
Lighting up the sky
If all of this is hers
Then why's she left in dark
Feeling gone inside
Why does she try to hideMy God is love
Light shining undercover in the moonlight
He makes a cold heart burn bright
Brighter than a neon sign
There's no way your mistakes
Are more than the maker can unmake
My God is love
Light shining, oh, and it's never too lateHis love'll lead you home
His love'll lead you home

You're never too far gone
My God is love
Light shining undercover in the moonlight
He makes a cold heart burn bright
Brighter than a neon sign
There's no way your mistakes
Are more than the maker can unmake
My God is love
Light shining, oh, and it's never too late
