

One Sweet Love

Sara Bareilles

Just about the time the shadows call
I undress my mind and dare you to follow
Paint a portrait of my mystery
Only close my eyes and you are here with me
A nameless face to think I see
To sit and watch the waves with me 'til they're gone
A heart I'd swear I'd recognize
Is made out of my own devices, could I be wrong?
Time that I've taken
I pray, is not wasted
Have I already tasted
My piece of one sweet love?
Sleepless nights, you creep inside of me
Paint your shadows on the breath that we share
You take more than just my sanity
And take my reason not to care
No ordinary wings I'll need
The sky itself will carry me back to you
The things I dream that I can do
I'd open up the moon for you, just come down soon
Time that I've taken
I pray, is not wasted
Have I already tasted
My piece of one sweet love?
Ready and waiting
For a heart worth the breaking
I'd settle for an honest mistake in
The name of one sweet love
Savor the sorrow to soften the pain
Sip on the southern rain as I do
I don't look, don't touch, don't do anything
But I hope that there is a you
The earth that is the space between
I'd banish it from under me to get to you
Your unexpected love provides
My solitary suicide, oh, I wish I knew
Time that I've taken
I pray, is not wasted
Have I already tasted

My piece of one sweet love?
Ready and waiting
For a heart worth the breaking
Oh, I'd settle for an honest mistake in
The name of one sweet love
One sweet love
