

Old Love Haunts Me In the Morning

Marissa Nadler

Old love haunts me in the morning
La, da da da da da da, di
Old love haunts in the evening
When the remnants of pictures come alive I told you that I loved you
I laid the summer down
Come all your careless wanderers
By the lake with the days of ruin When I first saw you in the sunshine
With the speckles and flaxen in your eyes
When I first saw you in the moonlight
It is true that I thought that I might die I told you that I loved you
By the lake with the summer gone
Come all your careless wanderers
By the lake with the days of ruin
