

Still Here Thinking Of You

Carole King

I have tried to untangle
All my thoughts from every angle
To know the one I loved the best
To dream of happiness and make that dream come true And I'm still here thinking of you
Yes, I'm still here thinking of you The city streets are colder
And I'm just a little bit older
My love has grown somehow
I can feel it now much more than you ever knew And I'm still here thinking of you
Yes, I'm still here thinking of you This road keeps winding and I wake up finding Somehow I've lost my way again
Oh, someday I'd like to get through
Someday I'd like to get to the road that's straight beyond the bend
Straight beyond the bend I have tried to unravel
The paths we've both had to travel
And now that I have come to see
How much you meant to me
We might get to see a better view And I'm still here thinking of you
Yes, I'm still here thinking of you I'm still here thinking of you
Yes, I'm still here thinking of you
