Retake

Katie Kuffel

When I begin to start wondering
How and why things change
Like days and nights
And stupid fights
I think I'll start over again
I did realize
That in my disguise
I fooled my eyes too
But I did see that in reality
Masks don't cover everything
In the days that I wasted
Time and all those wondrous places
That I missed out on
Now it's dawned on me
That I could be so much worse off

When I read between the lines
I tend to find myself too lost
To find my way back
Too much payback
I can't afford the cost
So I go a little slower
Hoping I can buy
A little time to pay my crimes
Now this time I've surely tried
And when the wheels begin to turn
And all my senses start to yearn
For clarity, no end I can see
So I'll remain completely lost

When I begin to start wondering
How and why things change
Like days and nights and stupid fights
I think I'll start over again
