So Much For An Early Night

Arthur Walwin

The awful combination of a cold, lonely night and too much (way too much) time apart. But you dont know how much Ive missed you.I'm here now, where are you and why won't you call? It's late and I wonder if you're all alone. So when you're ready to talk to me I'll be here waiting for you.And your silence says it all, cause I know it scares you to choose between what you want and being comfortable. So Im letting go of your God damn hands.

Now my eyes grew red and heavy when your faithful heart grew cold. And you'll answer when you're ready, in a language no one knows.I'm here now, where are you and why won't you call? It's late and I wonder if you're all alone. So when you're ready to answer me I'll be here waiting by the place that I swore I would never let you go. And all the time spent getting to know you, was time spent in vain cause Ill never be your solace again.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/