Another Time, Another Place

Bryan Ferry

I knew there'd be times like this
When I'd sit at home and reminisce
Oh, how one's memory slipsSo I close my book
And sighing, take a second look
Sure enough I'm quite aloneStill there no sound
So I spin a disc around and around
And slide the needle in the grooveDrive down any highway baby
But don't bid me adieu
Through a sea of twisting byways
I'll be trailing youEternity'll solve our problem
Take it as you may
And destiny'll stand corrected
Should we connect some dayAnother time to spend
Another place to go
Another love to share with youDeep emotion springs from this life
Wells up inside
Quick, pick me up and pour me over
The clouds crying byAnother time to spend
Another place to go
Another love, this time it's trueAnyway you want me lover
Used to be your tune
I looked you up, you looked me over
My lucky strike won throughI was cut, dried and discarded
Just a rusty blade
But since I found my four leaf clover
I've seen the light againAll the tears in the world
Seem to fall from you
At their rainbow's end
A halcyon day or twoHow soon we fool ourselves
How slow we tread
Astral planes, collide head on
And on and on we glide
As if forever
