Love â€“ even when it hurts
And by this everyone will know weâ€™re not just speaking words
Trust â€“ even in your doubts
Thereâ€™s comfort in the truth that we can never have God figured out

When faith starts breaking at the seams - let us not forget
The end will justify the means, and we are not there yet
So keep on walking through the night; after darkness comes the Morning light

Give â€“ even when it costs
Compared to what we gain someday we count all things as loss
Hope â€“ even to the end
Take courage as you go; we are on the road that leads to Him

When faith starts breaking at the seams, let us not forget
The end will justify the means, and we are not there yet
So keep on walking through the night; after darkness comes the Morning light

The road of faith will lead to sight; after darkness comes the Light
