Blister.

The Frail

Take advantage of these times, you said
You let me down
It hasn't been the first time
As I'm falling in the pit of fire my mind's made up
I'm never coming back hereAnd how long would it take me
To walk across the United States all alone
The West coast has been traumatized
And I think I'm the only one still aliveIs it just a coincidence to see you
By yourself with no direction
Now it's time to move on and
Don't you know that things aren't getting betterAnd how long would it take me
To walk across the United States all alone
The West coast has been traumatized
And I think I'm the only one still aliveWhen the world caves in what you gonna do
When the world caves in what you gonna do for me
When the world caves in what you gonna do
When the world caves in what you gonna do for meDon't try and stop me
(When the world caves in)
Because I'm falling fast into this pit
(What you gonna do)
Of fire which surrounds us all
(When the world caves in what you gonna do for me)
In a blanket of fear that I've been wrapped in for years
(When the world caves in what you gonna do)
Don't try and stop me, you can't stop me
(When the world caves in what you gonna do for me)And how long would it take me
To walk across the United States all alone
The West coast has been traumatized
And I think I'm the only one still aliveAnd how long would it take me
To walk across the United States all alone
The West coast has been traumatized
And I think I'm the only one still alive

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/