Where Would I Be Without IBM

Information Society

I could never care enough to do what I had to do
And now that I am scared enough, it all comes back to you
Communication's rarely open for messages to get through
I would speak, I'd be outspoken if I could think of anything newWhere would I be without my radio?
Where would I be without birth control?
Where would I be without fair-weather friends?
Where would I be without IBM?You tell me what I should need, advice is your specialty
But could I ever need enough for you to set me free?
I'm afraid to make decisions, that's where you come in
In the case of chance collisions, I look at you as my friendWhere would I be without my PC?
Where would I be without MTV?
Where would I be without CNN?
Where would I be without IBM?

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/