

Ridge Rider

Judee Sill

He rides the ridge between dark and light
Without partners or friends
He's courageous enough to be scared
But he's too humble to win
Bless the ridge rider
The ridge he's ridin' is mighty thin
I guess the ridge rider
Forgits he's travelin' with a friendHe comes from under the cryptosphere, where the great sandess begins
And he doesn't pretend to be brave
Tho' the road's dusty and dim
Bless the ridge rider
The ridge he's ridin' is mighty thin
I guess the ridge rider
Forgits he's travelin' with a friendSince the great fall he's been travelin' hard
Thinkin' bondage is sin
Hopin' someday the path'll turn gold and the weight'll turn into wind
Bless the ridge rider
The ridge he's ridin' is mighty thin
I guess the ridge rider
Forgits' he's travelin' with a friendhe rides the ridge between dark and light
Without partners or friends
He's courageous enough to be scared
But he's too humble to win
Bless the ridge rider
The ridge he's ridin' is mighty thin
I guess the ridge rider
Forgits he's travelin' with a friend.

Songwriters

SILL, JUDEEPublished by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>