Lesser Things

Jars of Clay

It looks a lot like givin' up The peace we bring is a bitter cup Set our bodies down like offerings While we pray to the God of the lesser thingsIf the wind should shake this house apart The cradle hits the ground with the broken heart Will we say we never knew a thing? While we pray to the God of the lesser thingsIs there grace for a wayward heart? Is there grace for a wayward heart? Grace, graceAsh to ash and dust to dust Steel on steel or rain to rust What mortal breath blood money brings Forth from the altar of the lesser thingsIs there grace for a wayward heart? Is there grace for a wayward heart? Is there grace, graceIs there grace for a wayward heart? Is there grace for a wayward heart? Grace, graceIs there grace for a wayward heart? Is there grace for a wayward heart? Grace, grace
