

A Twist In the Tale

Deep Purple

As you watch from your house on the hill
World keeps spinning around you you're standing still
And a thought rivers enters your mindSomething happened once in my life
A fading picture of you that's so hard to describe
I've been where the sun never shinesThat's alright there's a change in the story
That's alright there's a change in the plan
A twist in the taleFace in the mirror head in the clouds
Hanging on to a dream that you can't do without
As it drops like a stone without trace
Give what you want take what you need
Squeezing so hard there's no room to breathe
And your flavor has fallen from graceThat's alright there's a change in the story
That's alright there's a change in the plan
A twist in the taleI saw you dancing
Dancing on air
You were lost in the in the starlight
No one but me really cared
Every question turns out a lie
Can't you swallow the truth for once in your life
I loved you but don't ask me whyIt's alright there's a change in the story
It's alright there's a change in the plan
A twist in the tale

Songwriters

BLACKMORE, RITCHIE / GILLAN, IAN / GLOVER, ROGER DAVIDPublished by

Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>