

Miscreants

Apophys

we have made an unprecedented misconception this was a terrible mistake, we take full responsibility your thoughtless action led to creation of these insolent creatures we should have left this place alone omit the desolation our eagerness to start conceiving overshadowed our judgement this was the first of many fatal errors now we are left with one conclusion this race we fashioned turned upon itself and everything around it consuming all that it could and more the reckless violent nature that instills every single subject is something we did not expect terminate them all as we watch the revel these sickly beings we feel disgusted how could we mangage to overlook all the imperfections imbued into their system miscalculation of epic proportions why did we never suspect this could turn into ultimate chaos feverishly obsessed with creating our own form of life with disgrace and contempt we will undo this futile attempt atonement for all these discordancy's this experiment has declined a careless pursuit of flawless design it must be confined, diseased, corrupt now it will die
may the makers hand be the one that destroys its own fabrication a fitting result to a failed undertaking a fitting result to this terminal mess
this experiment has declined a careless pursuit of flawless design
it must be confined, diseased, corrupt
