Man In The Making

Holly Williams

He's a man in the making, afraid like a child
Who clings to all his fear
And I am his safety, the one with the love
Tryin' to see things clear, block his shadows
What do you want from me
I have been everything that I could be
You're just a man in the making
What do you need from me
After everything I've given you for free
You're just a man in the making
So, hey hey hey, don't lose your patience
My joy in the mornin', my pain in the night
Scattered, he defines
And I'd like to help him discover himself
But after all that I've done, only he is qualified
What do you want from me
I have been everything that I could be
You're just a man in the making
What do you need from me
After everything I've given you for free
You're just a man in the making
So, hey hey hey, don't lose your patience
You wrestle with faith, you wrestle with your needs
You claim I don't understand
But believe me, I see it deeper than you
Attempting it all too fast, prepare for a crash
So, what do you want from me
I have been everything that I could be
You're just a man in the making
And what do you need from me
After everything I've given you for free
You're just a man in the making
So hey hey hey
What do you want from me
I have been everything that I could be
You're just a man in the making
What do you need from me
After everything I've given you for free
You're just a man in the making

So hey hey hey, don't lose your patience
Hey hey, don't lose your patience

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/