Witness the Change

Pete Shelley

In my mind there are mirrors
Reflecting on the past
The shattered hopes and dreams of a future
That was never meant to lastJust turn around now
Tell me what you see
Look all around you
Is this how things could beHad enough of love neverlasting
But now I know it never will
Hanging around on the off chance
Waiting for that certain thrillJust turn around now
See what we have done
It's getting late now
The future has begunWitness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the changeSome kinds of love are magical mystical
I wonder how I'd feel
If ever I should be so enchanted
To get a taste of what is realJust look around now
Tell me what you see
Look all around you
Is this how things could beI feel the sound of thunder and laughter
It's tearing me apart
I start to fade till all that's remaining is
The echo of my heartJust look around you
See what we have done
It's getting late now
The future has begunWitness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change

Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the changeI have a feeling and I know it will never die
Part of the answer for asking the reason why
Out of the darkness the bright light surrounding me
I am a part of everything I touch and seeI feel the sound of thunder and laughter
It's tearing me apart
I hope that you will remember
The echo of my heartWitness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change
Witness the change

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/