

Gold on the Leaves

Luluc

Dum trees put me at ease
Their tall grey limbs, their sheltering green And though I like to roam far sometimes I long to be where I'm from The setting sun, retreats on the horizon
The light on the leaves, there's gold in the trees See these days, I'm bound to cities and crowds but some days I yearn, and I have to return To the shimmering heat of the bold hot sun that bears down endlessly
A shy little breeze, gathers with me I sit and I gaze at the space where you used to be The shimmering heat of the bold hot sun
that bears down endlessly
The rains will come, washed and undone I sit and I dream of the way you used to be
