Second Chances

Stellar Kart

No matter what you did or might do again
Following all the worthless trends
You know he's waiting patiently
From now until foreverBrokenhearted and confused
Feeling like you've been abused
The second chances never end
From now until foreverThere will always be second chances
And you'll always be on your first tryThere will always be second chances
And you'll always be on your first tryYou try and you try but you're never ahead of the game
And you're wondering why you're on your face again
You feel like you've been left aloneYou try and you try but you're never ahead of the game
And you're wondering why you're on your face again
You feel like you've been left aloneThere will always be second chances
And you'll always be on your first tryThere will always be second chances
And you'll always be on your first tryThere will always be second chances
And you'll always be on your first tryThere will always be second chances
And you'll always be on your first try
Forever, forever, forever, forever, forever
