Electricity

Elisa

(Music and lyrics by Elisa Toffoli)
Your daughter.. she's a dancer
Living in Buenos Aires
Sleeping on a mattress on the floor
Yes, sleeping on a mattress on the floor
Did you ever ask her how she feels?
Did you ever ask her if she feels?
Electricity through her body
That one thing that can make one happy
Like electricity through a body
Your father he's a rich man
And he's got many questions
He always wakes up with you in his head
He always wakes up with you in his head
And did you ever ask him how he feels?
And did you ever ask him how he feels?
That electricity through his body
That one thing that can make one happy

Like electricity through a body
It's that one thing that can make one happy, yeah
Your daughter is a woman living with her lover
And she's trying to do the best that she can Yeah she's trying to do the best that she can
And did you ever ask her how she feels?
And did you ever ask her if she feels?
Electricity through her body
That one thing that can make one happy
Like electricity through your body
That one thing that can make you happy
And you don't need to have more, oh no, oh no,
Oh no, you don't need to have more
You don't need to ask for more
You don't need to ask for more
You don't need to have more..

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/