

O'er Hell and Hide

Baroness

I took my black teeth down to the sea
Brother of mine
I washed myself in your steely gazeWe read your name o'er jaguar hide
Brother of mine
You saw terminus and bruised your kneesI lashed their bodies to the wheeling suns
Brother of mine
You tossed wet bluebirds in the airI sensed the whetstone's dark embrace
Brother of mine
Tender and rude like tiger skinnedWe once were lechers, rakes and rogues
Mother of mine
You're coming throughWe swallowed truncheon, shield and child
Sister of mine
You're coming throughWe spoke with sinners, snakes, and slaves
Daughter of mine
You're coming through
