

Euphoria

Eagulls

They're wide awake in dreams
Dawn colours beam
A stolen car screams past the early morning light They're chattering their teeth
The sparrows sing
They've punched below their belts for another night
Wide awake they dream
Chasing an escape from themselves to another life
When they should've known exactly wrong from right they're stepping over eggshells each line they'll ever try
Lost like moths flying to lights
they're chasing an escape from themselves with a sour line euphoric dreams are lies Bitten lips, big eyes Euphoric dreams are lies, they are lies Bit lips, big eyes and trying to remold themselves could've told themselves They'd hit below their own belts each time they tried Chasing vacant scenes clinging to the clothes that they wear as an alibi and wide awake asleep, in the living dream Hiding in a space in their heads, they've never liked
When they should've known exactly wrong from right
they're stepping over eggshells each line they'll
ever try
Lost like moths flying to lights
they're chasing an escape from themselves with a sour line
euphoric dreams are lies
They're wide awake in dreams, euphoric dreams stepping over eggshells each line they'll ever try
they're wide awake in dreams, euphoric dreams
chasing an escape from themselves with a sour line and trying to remold themselves, punched below their belts they're stepping over eggshells each time they'll ever try
they once were butterflies
now they flew like moths to light
they're stepping over eggshells each time they'll ever try
they once were butterflies
now they flew like moths to light
they're stepping over eggshells each time they'll ever try wide awake in dreams

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>