That Day

Nonpoint

It wasn't just the words that were thrown around,
It was the sound when the hit the ground runnin'I remember the smell in the room,
It was a bad tattoo like cheap perfumeThe days turned to weeks, months into a year,
I gotta bring up all the things that I want her to hearLosing sight of reality while losing the fight to try to forget,
All I have are the memories of every single word you said
Every single word you saidI remember that day,
Everything changed
I remember that day,
That image never fades away
I remember that day,
Something died inside of me
I remember that day,
That everything changedIt wasn't just a senseless situation,
Making something out of nothing nowAre you forgetting that rumors and reputation
Don't help your situationIf memory serves me right,
You were serving up nothing but a plate of liesLosing sight of reality while losing the fight to try to forget,
All I have are the memories of every single word you said
Every single word you said.I remember that day,
Everything changed
I remember that day,
That image never fades away
I remember that day,
Something died inside of me
I remember that day,
That everything changedYou say you have a problem now
I think we have a problem here
You say you have a problem now
I say there is no way for us right nowI remember that day,
Everything changed
I remember that day,
That image never fades away
I remember that day,
Something died inside of me
I remember that day,
Everything changedI remember that day,
That everything changed
I remember that day,
That image never fades away
I remember that day,

Something died inside of me
I remember that day,
That everything changed
That everything changed
