Always Love You

Shyam Moses

Tell me if you break the hourglass Can you hold to what you have?
Can you make the moment last?Tell me if you give away your heart and the life tears you apart is it the end or just the startWell,no matter how far you go
I will always love you
Like a thousand rivers from my soul
I will always love youI miss you and the funny things you say I remember every day in a hundred different waysI miss you being here with me Thought you've been set free
I hold you in my memory'cause no matter how far you go
I will always love you
Like a thousand rivers from my soul
I will always love youNo body is too wide Across the great divide and if soul to the skies above can conquer the earth below There's one thing I want you to know
I want you to know isNo matter how far you go
I will always love you
Like a thousand rivers from my soul
I will always love you
