Like a Lighthouse

Michael Webb

Like a lighthouse

Like a lighthouse standing bold against the gray, shining through the night to warn of dangers in our way. Like a lighthouse built on solid stone, shedding light on weary seamen, who have drifted far from home.

Feeling along, feeling afraid, losing my hope, losing my way, tossed about like a ship on a stormy sea, waiting for someone to rescue me and then I see him.

Chorus - Like a lighthouse standing bold against the gray, shining through the night to warn of dangers in our way. Like a lighthouse built on solid stone, shedding light on weary seamen, who have drifted far from home.

So many paths, so many roads, so hard to tell which way to go sometimes, lost at sea with no compass to point the way hoping for someone will save my day and show the way.

Like a lighthouse standing bold against the gray, shining through the night to warn of dangers in our way. Like a lighthouse built on solid stone, shedding light on weary seamen, who have drifted far from home.
