

Reborn

Scar Symmetry

The path before you never coming to a halt
It stretches endlessly from here into the unknown
Looking back you barely see through the fog
What you were once, you are no more Each moment unique, none exactly the same
Defied, denied to live and exist like this again
Now you will see you are reborn
Arrive, arise to your new world as this one dies
Forever death will embrace everything At dusk arrives, the dark night of the soul
Waiting to crush every stone left unturned
As you enter, go at least with this certainty
You will emerge at dawn transformed Each moment unique, none exactly the same
Defied, denied to live and exist like this again
Now you will see you are reborn
Arrive, arise to your new world as this one dies
Forever death will embrace everything All things end, none survives
Every form must fade away All things end, changing shape
Waking to life again Each moment unique, none exactly the same
Defied, denied to live and exist like this again
Now you will see you are reborn
Arrive, arise to your new world as this one dies
Forever death will embrace everything
