

Toil

Ben Marwood

If you hear this song aloud when I am not around please know that everything will be all right and life wont hurt you now.
If you're sick of days aquiver is it time to stand and shout send your enemies star hiding instead of hiding out.

Believe me when I say, I'm at peace with the day when the dead will rise and take me to my grave. but it's easier to look the other way and no matter what your fucking neighbours say i refuse to sober up and so decay it's what you say, hey.

If you hear this song aloud
when I am not around
please know that everything will be all right
and life wont hurt you now
if you're sick of days aquiver
is it time to stand and shout,
send your enemies star hiding
instead of hiding out,
oh lord.

Believe me when I shout there's no point freaking out you can't claim a single second lost to doubt.
it's the moment of the atmosphere, the way you choose to disappear. the silence shout that what you hear back up your regrets and wind down the days you toil write my name into the soil.

If you hear this song aloud
when i am not around
please know that everything will be all right
and life wont hurt you now
If you're sick of days aquiver
is it time to stand and shout,
send your enemies star hiding,
instead of hiding out

And yes it's true we've loved and lost but in the end we've won we've the best in friends and family and an endless lust for fun with a love for the macabre and a sideline for bad jokes we'd rather sing of love craft that sit through holy oaks no no no no uh.

If you hear this song aloud
when i am not around
please know that everything will be all right though I am in the ground cos it isn't where you finish its the way you run this race and I intend to go the distance but I'll do it at my pace.

I think I made some mistakes, but oh well.

Lyrics submitted by Tarina.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>