You Are Loved

Martin Halla

I still remember three feet tall
Standing next to You I felt so small
I would've walked a million miles
Just to see You look at me and smileWould it have been so hard
To give me just a little space
Inside Your heart'Cause all I ever wanted and all I ever needed
Was just to hear You say "You are loved, my son"
To hear You speak my name and say, "Well done, well done"Staring at the sky I feel so small
But still You see me underneath it all
You tell me I have never been alone
And that You even named me as Your ownYou still wear the scars
From when You laid down everything
For my heartAnd all that you are giving is all that I am needing
Just to hear You say, "You are loved, my son"
To hear You speak my name and say, "Well done, well done"Well You're a Father to the fatherless
A Hero to the hero less
A Savior for anyone who's wanting, who's needingA Father to the fatherless
A Hero to the hero less
A Savior for anyone who's wanting, who's needingJust to hear You say, "You are loved, my son"
To hear You speak my name and say "Well done"
Just to hear You say, "You are loved, my son"
To hear You speak my name and say, "Well done, well done"
