By Now

Emily Hurd

How've You been Can I come in Just came to get my things and then I guess im leaving
If I could say
What you'd like to hear I'd whisper in your hear it's only temporary But i've been taking you for granted
And i thought you'd feel the same as me it's time that i come clean but, but for now can we, just both pretend to sleep sometimes the one you want, is not the one you need what goes around don't come around You should know me by now, better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me) I should know you as well
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
You should know me by now Our talk is small im seven inches tall and you should keep the apartment, so heres my keys,
changed all the bells, we're only built to spill and wonder where it all went And you've been taking me for granted
And i thought you'd feel the same as me
it's time that i come clean
but, but for now can we, just both pretend to sleep

sometimes the one you want, is not the one you need
what goes around don't come around
You should know me by now,
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
I should know you as well
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)

better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
You should know me by now
I know that I remember you I think that you remember me too how can one of us still feel blessed while the other ones lost i know you've got to feel the change It just gets worse when it stays the same How can one of us still feel blessed while the other ones soooooo lost
By nooooooooooooooooow
sometimes the one you want, is not the one you need what goes around don't come around (dont you know me by now)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
I should know you as well
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
You should know me by now

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/