Gnarly Charlie

Ten Foot Pole

by the time you hear this song it'll be over. narlie charlie's back again. he's wearing a goatee. doesn't look the way he did five years before on the streets again and knocking on my door. only come out at night when the lights are out and no one's around. the streets are his to take. it's uncle charlie's first playground. don't you know he will find you in your sleep and rip through rip through you. why don't you leave me alone. why don't you stay away from me. he doesn't value time on the outside. hes' just looking in on top of the world. today see charlie's coming back again. i can see why he doesn't make it in the world us who really care. why don't you leave me alone why don't you stay away from me . charlie's back again.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/