The Fool's Fooling Himself

Scott Matthews

Oh frail child
White hair with the innocent smile
In a drained state
Felt his breath blow right out the gate
Looks in disbelief
Seen his life run away down the street
Finds it hard to breathe
When you're in shock from the jealous thiefI'm only a wish in your well
I was paid to accept what was dealt
Like a fool I've been fooling myself
Fool like no one else
I bleed in loss(?)
Losing all control for sure
I'm in debt with pain
I can bleed no moreIf the morning sun
Fills your eyes then it's something you love
See the clown's face
Raise a smile to the cries that he hates
Only time will tell
If the rose isn't red anymore
And expressions are blank
Then you know who to thank
Who to thank, who to thankI'm only a wish in your well
I was paid to accept what was dealt
Like a fool I've been fooling myself
Fool like no one else
I bleed in loss(?)
Losing all control for sure
I'm in debt with pain
I can bleed no more
