

In These Wounds

Farewell to Freeway

over my dead body you'll lie thoughts cold all oversight it's all inside my head and you wish you only knew of it under your spell these feelings never seemed the same until this moment here with you in these wounds a knife along your throat it's life that's worth it all the blood that runs so cold in these wounds time time and time again these moments shall remain these moments shared with you shall remain as you my informer I try it's not my intention to seek fear when all your worries all calm down and still fall through it's all in these moments here with you

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>