

Think I'd Feel Fine

The Mallett Brothers Band

Honey, don't lie to me, I know you'll always be true
I know I'm the potatoes in your hot beef stew

It's a big old world there's a lot of pretty places,
A lot of pretty people with a lot of pretty faces
But wherever you go, you'll come right back
You'll sit on down, you'll have a heart attack
But it'll be alright, you keep doing what you do
You see I'm all dressed up and it's all for you

And I don't know how, and I don't know why
She's got to make me so high

Maybe we don't look like we used to, like we used
Maybe we don't smile like we used to, like we used to baby
Once in a while what would you do, what would you do
'Cause I think I'd feel just fine
I think I'd feel fine

Because we are like a brand new day, like a shotgun wedding
Hot dogs and beans, we're meatballs and spaghetti
And the girl's so good, doing me so right
I think I'm gonna keep her up about half the night
'Cause she loves me so good, must be breaking a law
She's tearing me up like an old chainsaw
Like a big ol steak, an ice cold bevy
Like a four wheel drive on a brand new Chevy

And I don't know how and I don't know why
That girl's got to make me so high

Maybe we don't look like we used to, like we used
Maybe we don't smile like we used to, like we used to baby
Once in a while what would you do, what would you do
'Cause I think I'd feel just fine
I think I'd feel fine

---

Lyrics submitted by Jessica.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>