I'll Drown

SoÌ•ley

He's alone in his house out there,
far, far away,
he sleeps with his eyes open.

He was so sad last night,
in this house out there
he took my hand and whispered.

And life is so sad
in this house out there,
his window's alright his garden is wonderful.

But this waterfall salt tears comes from him,
he will fill his house.

He takes my hand
and whispers:
I'll drown when I see you,
I'll drown when I see you,
I'll drown when I see you.

These tears run so fast in his house out there he tried to get out,
his house took his hand and smiled.

You'll never escape
from this sad, sad house,
I take his hand,
we sink.

I'll drown when I see you,
I'll drown when I see you,
I'll drown when I see you,
I do.
