What For

Loboda

You don't know what's right anymore
You think your love is just a score
Are you too young
Or afraid to grow up?
You can work this out if you both try
It's hard to cheat but harder to lie
Is this what you want
Or just a passing thought?
Maybe you should think about it
Before you go and break her heart
Maybe you need more time to decide
Ask yourself what for, what for, what for, what for
You painted the pictures she wanted to see
You can laugh this one off but it's not funny
She's given you everything
She has, oh, oh
Maybe you should think about it
Before you go and break her heart
Maybe you need more time to decide

Ask yourself what for, what for, what for, what for
Well, you wanted her and you got her
But you're still so careless with your words
If you let her go, she'll move on and find someone
She's never coming back, how can you live with that?
Maybe you should think about it
Before you go and break her heart
Maybe you need more time to decide
So you should think about it some more
And ask yourself what for
I know it sounds like the same old line, what for
I know it seems like I'm the same old guy, what for Maybe I don't know how to treat you right, what for Maybe you'll meet someone tomorrow night, what for You said, I lied since the day we met, what for Well, I meant every word I said, what for
So don't regret a single day we spent, what for
