

Cherry Bowl Drive-In

Joshua Kadison

Saw her at the Texaco just the other day
Even more beautiful, her hair had a touch of gray
We both stood and stared at each other, couldn't say a word
Then I said, "God, it's good to see you"
And she said, "Well, have you heard?" They're tearin' down the Cherry Bowl Drive-In tomorrow
Where I first kissed you and ran my fingers through your hair
She's goin' the way all things must go someday
But I will still remember you there, yes, I will
I will still remember you there Then I said, "Little Melissa, she's lookin' more and more like you
Saw her down on Maple Street, she's even got your same smile too
And my Jake Jr. says, "Daddy, someday I'm gonna marry that girl"
Isn't that just perfect, it's such a crazy world So they're tearin' down the Cherry Bowl Drive-In tomorrow
Where I first kissed you and ran my fingers through your hair
She's goin' the way all things must go someday
But I will still remember you there, yes, I will, yes, I will
I will still remember you there Can you get away tomorrow?
If you can't, I'll understand
It's just that when the big screen falls
I wanna be holdin' your hand
Holdin' your hand When they're tearin' down the Cherry Bowl Drive-In tomorrow
Where I first kissed you and ran my fingers through your hair
She's goin' the way all things must go someday
But I will still remember you there, yes, I will, yes, I will
I will still remember there

Songwriters

Kadison Joshua B Published by

SEYMOUR GLASS SONGS; JOSHUA SONGS Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>