MATOMA

I know a love that keeps me calm in the storm,
Keeps the blood inside me warm
Wherever I go, it never leaves
Like a suitcase of memoriesI know a love that's stronger than I am
It beats me up, and keeps me trying
And when I can't, it fights for me
From boy to man, and in betweenI remember backpack, and bottled water
Them days I've seen the bottom
Free falling, two words from the night is over fire pits
Who's got the words to my mistakes?
I hope you heard what I meant to sayThere will be times when it rains on you
I'll be the life that you can hold on to,
And on the day when I turn to dust,
I hope you know just how much I love you!I know a love that looks me right in the eyes
Help me see beyond boundaries and lies
And there's a better side of me, sometimes it's all I need.I remember backpack, and bottled water
Them days I've seen the bottom
Free falling, two words from the night is over fire pits
Who's got the words to my mistakes?
I hope you heard what I meant to sayThere will be times when it rains on you
I'll be the life that you can hold on to,
And on the day when I turn to dust,
I hope you know just how much I love you!This love I've found, life's greatest lesson
In my way I believe it's an impression
What has been paves the road for what's to be
With every step I make, I'll let it be.I remember backpack, and bottled water
Them days I've seen the bottom
Free falling, two words from the night is over fire pits
Who's got the words to my mistakes?
I hope you heard what I meant to sayThere will be times when it rains on you
I'll be the life that you can hold on to,
And on the day when I turn to dust,
I hope you know just how much I love you!
