

Death to the World

Kreator

Death to the world, man's necronomicon
Depopulation, Quetzalcoatl's return
Sorrow and famine, afterbirth of sixth age
Facing the dawn of a seven year atrocious plague
Death to the world, no religion can save
Mankind from falling into botomless graves
Chernobyl horror, oh the great burning light
Behold catastrophes as heaven and hell collide
Death to the world, death to the world
Reincarnate the gods that died to reign on Earth
Death to the world, death to the world
Embodiment of all demise, the whole human race shall die
Death to the world, oceans darker than black
Slaughtering creatures with no sense of regret
Their simulacrums and their temples of lust
Kings and peasants, by nature's hand they're crushed
Death to the world, death to the world
Reincarnate the gods that died to reign on Earth
Death to the world, death to the world
Embodiment of all demise, the whole human race shall die
Mother Earth, what have we done to you?
Mother Earth, why have we forsaken you?
Mother Earth, the paradise you gave
Mother Earth, all your beauty
We have raped
And if those who find shelter
Can only survive
Out of atoms and emptiness
From such foulness of root giving
Birth to the world
Gods to the world
Hate to the world
Wars to the world
Death to the world, death to the world
Reincarnate the gods that died to reign on Earth
Death to the world, death to the world
Embodiment of all demise, the whole human race shall die
