

You've Got a Midlife Crisis

The Score

When I woke up this morning
I was feeling very ill.
So I went to see a doctor
To ask the doctor for a pill.
And when i saw the doctor I said,
"What's the problem doctor man?"
And he said to me,
And he said
Doctor said,

"You've got a midlife Crisis,
And you probably won't make it 'till you're thirty-nine."
"I blame your vices,
So you better make use of all your time."
"You've got a midlife crisis
And you're probably in the middle now,
Of a midlife crisis and you better make it out somehow."

So I walked down the street,
And I hopped aboard a train
And I went to see a counselor,
To find out what was with my brain.
And wen i saw the counselor i said,
"Whats the problem counselor man"
And he said to me,
And he said
Counselor said,

"You've got a midlife Crisis,
And you probably won't make it 'till you're thirty-nine."
"I blame your vices,
So you better make use of all your time."
"You've got a midlife crisis
And you're probably in the middle now,
Of a midlife crisis and you better make it out somehow."

[Vocal Solo]

"You've got a midlife Crisis,
And you probably won't make it 'till you're thirty-nine."

I blame my vices,
So I better make use of all my time.
I've got a midlife crisis
And I'm probably in the middle now,
Of a midlife crisis and I better make it up somehow.
A midlife crisis and I better make it out somehow.
A midlife crisis and I better make it out somehow.
A midlife crisis and I better make it out somehow.

Lyrics submitted by Tony.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>