

Wicked Games

Chronic Future

Did I wait too long? It made me somber
Wondering onward stronger, on and on
But I'm still awake, you haven't killed me
I am willing to persevere another day You can run away, but you can't escape
All these wicked games
Run away but you can't escape
All these wicked You're impossible like ignoring the habit of breathing
I'm expendable to you completed then superseded
You're impossible like ignoring the habit of breathing
I'm expendable to you completed then superseded I insist it ends, my circumstances burned my chances
The answers want it that way
But I'm still awake, I have opponents
I've got moments to own that know my way You can run away, but you can't escape
All these wicked games
Run away but you can't escape
All these wicked games
(But it still exists and it's still there, it still exists and it's still there) You can't escape these wicked games
(But it still exists and it's still there, it still exists and it's still there)
You can't escape these wicked games, these wicked games
(But it still exists and it's still there, it still exists and it's still there)
It still exists and it's still there, it still exists and it's still there
It still exists and it's still there, it still exists and it's still there)
All these wicked games, we can't escape Go through your pain and struggle but maintain the knowing
(You can run away, but you can't escape)
Of what'll come to you showing it's all right
There's plenty around to drown you
Pronunciate found to all that surround you, give them all flight
(All these wicked games) Running away is a stain in the mud, a brain stem with a plug
(Run away but you can't escape)
When you get there you don't know why you came
You end up going where you're knowing
Is showing in different form, but inside you feel the same
There's always someone else to blame
(All these wicked)
