Where It All Begins

Addison Road

Twenty nine and I'm going back to the basics
Finding love, making peace, having a little more patience
I wanna love somebody more than myself
'Cause it would do some good for my mental health
To take a backseat, remember everything You taught meI need You to show me how to feel again
I come to You with open hands
Teach me to be real again
Take me back to where it all beginsSlowing down, tuning out all the noise just to hear Your voice
Sounds simple enough, I know but it's a daily choice
I wanna love when it's costly, be quick to forgive
Run to the one who calls me to liveShow me how to feel again
I come to You with open hands
Teach me to be real again
Take me back to where it all beginsTo where it all begins
To where it all begins
To where it all begins
To where it all beginsShow me how to feel again
I come to You with open hands
Teach me to be real again
Take me back to where it all beginsShow me how to feel again
Twenty nine and I'm going back to the basics
Teach me to be real again
Take me back to where it all beginsTo where it all begins
To where it all begins
To where it all begins

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/