

Janey

Dylan Jakobsen

Janey's got her daddy's picture on the wall,
So he can tuck her in at night,
She'll tell him all about her school and how she's doing,
Got some friends but she's too scared to let them drive,
She still remembers waking up beside the concrete,
Coming home from grandma's house,
And headlights shining headed right towards that front windshield,
No man those tires weren't slowing down,
It's nights like these before she sleeps she hits the groundSays daddy help me,
See I've been broken,
Since heaven got a set of wings
I've been here thinking 'bout you wondering,
When I grow up,
Yeah when I find love,
Will I miss you even more than those days when I's a child,
Well dad I hope I see you when I dream,
Love your baby girl,
JaneyNeighbors heard the news,
Couldn't help but cry,
Little girl 'bout 10 lost her dad that night,
She still remembers sirens ringin',
Blue lights flashin',
Well its times like these she looks up and asks himDaddy help me,
See I've been broken,
Since heaven got a set of wings
I've been here thinking 'bout you wondering,
When I grow up,
Yeah when I find love,
Will I miss you even more than those days when I's a child,
Well dad I hope I see you when I dream,
Love your baby girl,
JaneyDaddy help me,
See I've been broken,
Since heaven got a set of wings
I've been here thinking 'bout you wondering,
When I grow up,
Yeah when I find love,
Will I miss you even more than those days when I's a child,
Well dad I hope I see you when I dream,

Love your baby girl,
